Wall Street Library Milk Gently, Please. New Class Consciousness. Most Shameful Crime.

By Arthur Brisbane

(Written Wednesday, July 30.)
Somebody wanted a branch of New York's public library located in Wall street. It would have been pleasing to watch a man buy one hundred shares of Steel, rush to the Wall street library, read a few lines of the Ode to the West Wind and fly back to the ticker.

The Wall street branch is not to be, says Mr. Anderson, library director, because land costs too much down there.

Which would have been the most popular books in such a library? Lives of Croesus, de Medici, Jacques Coeur, Rothschild, and John D. Rockefeller would probably have come first. It would have been a library of interesting specialization.

To get the best results from a cow farmers tell you to milk her steadily, gently, quietly and talk her dry.

According to Senator Poindexter, of Washington, the Standard Oil company neglects one of these recommendations in milking that profitable financial cow, the United States of America.

Mr. Poindexter says the Standard Oil Company of California rules the Pacific coast and in one year, 1918, on an investment of fifty millions, took out forty-four millions in net profits, not quite one hundred per cent.

The Standard Oil program seems to be: Milk steadily, VIOLENTLY and very dry. Standard Oil may be wise, on the whole, for who knows how long the milking will last? The farmer owns his cow all her life; it may not be so with the Standard Oil cow.

An anti-league senator says great capitalists of the country approve the peace league because it will enable them to gamble safely in foreign lands, knowing that the United States and allied governments will use force, if necessary, to make their investments safe. It was not much fun buying the Czar's Russian bonds only to have them repudiated by the Bolsheviks.

According to this senator, under peace league conditions armies of allied nations and this country would collect the financier's debts for them.

It is not easy to ignore the fact that statesmen closely connected with high finance, and violently opposed to the league at first, now advocate the peace league, and the big legal guns which finance employs in its work are booming heavily on the peace league side, including the two biggest of the legal Big Berthas, Root and Hughes.

Six men and two women have been condemned to death in Paris, and a dozen more sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment on dreadful charges.

These men and women, known as the "Laon Informers," were convicted of betraying their French compatriots to the Germans, while the latter occupied Laon. These French citizens even denounced French soldiers in hiding. The soldiers were brought out and shot. Such after the war convictions would seem to justify Bernard Shaw's recent statement that the Germans "dirty fighters were no dirtier than those on our side, and their gallant fighters as gallant as any of ours."

That statement made by Shaw so soon after the war, and tolerated by the British, shows that free speech and free thought have come to life in England more rapidly than in the United States. Such things as Bernard Shaw writes and publishes there would not be taken well here.

The shipping board announces that it has 329 ships, of four and one-quarter million tons dead weight, running on 62 trade routes. There, for a few minutes, you have the American flag and American ships back on the ocean. In addition two and one-half million tons of commercial shipping are still employed by the army and navy, and there are millions of tons in shipping still to be built by the government at the people's expense.

In that government-owned shipping there would be promise of prosperity in peace and safety in war. But, unfortunately, the shipping board also announces that it intends to sell the ships built by the people to private individuals, for less than their cost, and with permission to put them under foreign flags, if desired.

It is difficult to believe that this shameful program can be carried

FORMER FEDERAL OFFICIAL VICTIM OF NIGHT DYNAMITE BOMB ATTACK

RAIL STRIKE IN THE EAST IS A FAILURE

Only Ten Men Quit At Cleveland; Leaders Deny Any Trouble There.

Shopmen in West Go Out at Several Points on Monday.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH) CLEVELAND, Aug. 4.—Reports last night from Chicago that 20,000 members of the American Federation of Railway Workers here and in the east, chiefly unskilled labor, had decided to strike today, failed to materialize here. According to reports from all local railroad yards that all but ten shopmen reported for work this morning.

Several leaders of unskilled labor organizations here denied any knowledge of a strike call for today.

The strike of federated railway shopmen, which entered on its fourth day today and has already involved approximately 250,000, will soon spread to every section of the country, local officials at the union declared today, unless their demands are speedily met.

The ranks of the strikers were augmented by several thousand yesterday, many others voted to join today, while locals at a number of important railway centers, including Kansas City, Mo., were to ballot during the day on the question of going out.

Fifteen hundred shopmen at Superior, Wis., were to quit work today, according to the president of the Superior local. Should the men quit at Superior and other railway terminals at the head of Lake Superior, the movement of iron ore down the Great Lakes would be seriously hampered within a few days, railroad officials said.

At Cumberland, Md., the shopmen of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad went out Friday called off the strike Sunday on the ground that it did not have official sanction.

In other cities the locals at mass meetings decided not to strike until orders came from their executive officials who are now in Washington in conference with officials of the railroad administration.

The most serious tie-up in industry caused by the shopmen's strike was reported from Gary, Ind., where eight of the twelve blast furnaces there of the United Steel corporation were banked. It was said 10,000 men were thrown out of employment as a result of the shutting down of these furnaces.

The entire force of shopmen employed by the Vabash and the Lake Erie & Western walked out, according to heads of local unions, while on other railroads the tie-up was only partial.

Railroad officials said that traffic would begin to suffer seriously within five days to a week unless some settlement of the strike is arranged.

Heart of Chicago's Race Riot District and City Officials Who Helped Quell Disturbances

This photograph was taken at the corner of Thirty-sixth and State streets, Chicago, in the heart of the race riot district. The motorcycles were left by policemen who were summoned to quell disturbances near by. Below are Mayor Thompson, who appealed to Governor Lowden to call out state troops, and First Assistant Chief of Police Alcock, who was put in charge of the police assigned to riot duty.

TIDAL WAVE, CAUSED BY AN EARTH SHOCK JARS U. S. PACIFIC FLEET WHILE OFF THE COAST OF MEXICO

ON BOARD U. S. S. NEW MEXICO, Aug. 3.—(By wireless to the Associated Press).—Six dreadnoughts of the Pacific fleet were shaken so severely by a double earthquake shock at 4:18 o'clock this afternoon when 20 miles off the west coast of the state of Colima, Mexico. None of the warships was reported to have been damaged.

The New Mexico trembled from bow to stern as if she had struck an uncharted reef, and the navigation officer sounded "collision quarters" on the flagship's siren. Sailors in the foretop said the basket masks of the warship swayed like poplar trees in a gale.

Officers on the quarter deck hurried to their posts and the crew and the marines took their places. Meanwhile all water tight compartments on the New Mexico were closed and inspection parties were sent into the holds to see if the hull had been damaged.

Rodman Realizes Cause. Admiral Hugh Rodman, commanding the fleet, quickly recognized the cause of the disturbances. "It's an earthquake," he said. "We're right off the coast of Soloma, where there are many earthquakes."

Turning to Commander Brainerd, he ordered: "Signal all ships in the fleet and see if they felt an excessive vibration."

Wireless telephone messages were received soon from the five other dreadnoughts reporting that they felt the shock. The Mississippi, which was further off shore, reported heavy vibrations.

"Just what I thought—an earthquake," Admiral Rodman said.

When the first tremor of the ship was felt those below hurried on deck. The faces of some of the recruits showed alarm as the men stood at quarters awaiting orders, while the flagship rolled and pitched in the heavy swells that followed the shocks.

"Secure Signal" Sounded. Admiral Rodman kept the crew at quarters for 15 minutes and then ordered the "secure signal" to be sounded. He took the whole incident as if it were a matter of routine, giving his orders quietly on the quarter deck while officers and men were running to their posts in the tense excitement of the first few moments.

One of the officers reported that he believed the earthquake came from an old crater in the Sierra Mountains which fringe the coast line near here, dropping off into the sea.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The double earthquake shock, which, according to a dispatch today from the battleship New Mexico, shook the six dreadnoughts of the Pacific fleet severely when off the Mexican coast.

was not recorded by the seismograph at Georgetown university. The shock, Director Tendorf, of the seismographical observatory, said, undoubtedly was due to a tidal wave which may have its origin in volcanic action of some kind on the bed of the Pacific ocean, a heavy wind or a minor earth tremor in the vicinity of the battleships.

PROVISIONS AND GRAINS CRASHING DOWN ON MARTS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH) CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Grain and provisions crashed heavily downward today in value. Selling was on large scale, influenced chiefly by the widespread agitation against the high cost of living. Within an hour corn prices dropped 5 1-2 cents to 8 cents a bushel and pork $1.25 a barrel.

December delivery of corn, the principal option fell to $1.49 1-4 and January pork to $18.00.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Agitation against the high cost of living and generally disturbed labor conditions unsettled the cotton market and prices broke more than $3 a bale during the day's early trading. October contracts which had sold at $15.50 and closed at $14.30 on Saturday opened at $14.00 and within 15 or 20 minutes sold off to $13.15 under heavy general liquidation.

TRACK IS PLAYGROUND BABE'S FEET CRUSHED PORT CLINTON, Aug. 4.—While playing about the Lakeside & Marblehead tracks at Marblehead, Rose Martin, a small child, had both of her feet severely crushed. She was taken to the Kolloy Island Lime & Transportation Company hospital at Marblehead, where an effort is being made to save the right foot from amputation.

SELL WHEAT AT $1.50 A BUSHEL OFFICIAL PLAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Action of the most drastic character is to be taken by the government within the next 48 hours to hit the high cost of living a body blow.

The sub-committee of the committee of eight high government officials, named by President Wilson to formulate a program to reduce sharply the costs of living necessities has unanimously decided to recommend three steps of a radical nature.

This sub-committee, composed of W. B. Colver, chairman of the federal trade commission; Walker D. Hines, director-general of railroads, and R. C. Leffingwell, assistant secretary, has agreed upon this program:

1.—For the government immediately to buy a billion bushels of wheat at the guaranteed price of $2.26 a bushel and immediately place it back on the market at $1.50 a bushel, the government to take up the entailed loss of $760,000,000.

2.—For summary action through the department of justice under the so-called Lever law, the act creating the food and fuel administration. This law gives the government sweeping powers and has some sections not even used during the war, which it is now proposed to bring into play as a means immediately to get a strangle hold on all profiteers, speculators and hoarders.

May Sell All Supplies.

3.—For all departments of the government to disgorge immediately and throw onto the open market everything they have in the way of supplies. This would include not alone everything in the way of foodstuffs, but clothes, blankets, shoes and all sorts of goods of this description, and might even include some fuel.

The sub-committee after working all of yesterday, most of last night and today, came to the conclusion that the situation throughout the country was so menacing in its aspects as to justify action in capital letters.

U. S. PEACE ARMY OF 510,000 MEN IS LATEST PROPOSAL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Plans for a permanent peace time army of 510,000 of officers and men and a system of universal military training were transmitted to congress today by Secretary of War Baker.

The plans were embodied in a bill which represents the policy of the war department with respect to the peace time military establishment. Under the measure all special services built up during the war would be maintained as separate branches except the chemical warfare service which would be merged with the engineers corps.

Three months' military training for youths of 19 would be made compulsory and promotion of officers by seniority would be abolished. Secretary Baker said the war had shown this system of promotion to be defective.

MORE TROOPS ARRIVE

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The transport Virginian arrived today from Brest with 118 officers and 3043 men of the 23rd infantry. The 23rd is a part of the famous second division made up of regular army, marine and coast artillery troops. Except for a few brief rest periods the regiment was in action from Chateau Thierry until the signing of the armistice.

As Assistant Attorney-General of U. S. He Prosecuted Dynamiters in Middle West.

Other Members of Family Have Narrow Escape From Death in Flames.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH) LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 4.—Oscar Lawler, former assistant United States attorney general, who was seriously burned yesterday in a fire, following a bomb explosion which wrecked his home, has "a chance of recovery," according to his physicians early today. They seemed certain of the recovery of Mrs. Lawler, who also was badly burned.

The explosion was said by the police to have been the result of a desire for revenge by a group of dynamiters whom he prosecuted some years ago in the middle west. A reward of $5,000 for the arrest and conviction of the perpetrators of the bomb outrage has been offered by the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association, and Mayor Snyder announced that he would ask the city council today to offer an additional $1,000 reward.

Deep burns covered nearly half of the area of Mr. Lawler's body, chiefly on the upper part. Mrs. Lawler's burns were of a secondary nature, but her sufferings were increased by a fracture of the clavicle, sustained, it was believed, when her husband dropped her from the second story of their burning home.

Awakened shortly before 3:00 o'clock Sunday morning by a terrific explosion, immediately below the second story porch where they were sleeping and seeing the home enveloped in flames, Mr. and Mrs. Lawler attempted to reach another sleeping porch to rescue their five-year-old son, Oscar, Jr., and his nurse.

When they were cut off by the fire, Mrs. Lawler fainted. Her husband took her in his arms and carried her through the flames to a window and lowered her body to an awning which covered a window on the ground floor. From the awning she fell to the ground. Mr. Lawler then jumped, striking his head on the steps.

The boy and his nurse were rescued uninjured.

AMHERST STORE IS BURGLAR FAVORITE

AMHERST, O., Aug. 4.—Cans, ammunition, knives and razors were taken each time by burglars in the seven times the Wescheer Hardware company store has been burglarized in the past seven years. The latest haul resulted in a $75 loot. The burglars were in the army last year, evidently, because of no robbery, but have made up for it by two robberies this year.

Brisbane's Comment

On current events of the day is the most enlightening reading of the hour. No matter whether you agree with Brisbane, the highest priced writer in the world (we don't always, ourselves) you never read his articles without LEARNING SOMETHING. Mr. Brisbane will write daily for The Lima Times under the head of "Today."

(The Lima Times calls attention of its readers to the fact that Mr. Brisbane has a free hand in writing. He gives his own views and The Times will print them as written. And it must be understood that Brisbane's views are not those of The Times. Not one word will be changed even if the article expresses opinions exactly opposite to those of this paper. We can all afford to hear the "other side," especially when the greatest writer in the world gives the opposite version.)

TWELVE DIE IN ARSENAL EXPLOSION

RARITAN, N. J., Aug. 4.—At least twelve men were killed and many injured by the explosion of several of the magazines of the United States arsenal here at 1:00 o'clock this afternoon. The buildings which were wrecked caught fire and the arsenal fire department is striving to keep the flames from spreading to the main structure.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 4.—A box car near the arsenal is said to have blown up at 1:00 p. m., setting fire to three magazines which exploded.

Residents of the vicinity are fleeing from their homes, fearing that other magazines will be destroyed.

Garau in Bad Luck, and Pays $10 Fine Besides

It's a bad thing to cut one's finger. Some people think it's worse to get drunk, and we know it's even worse to get arrested. However, S. G. Garau, 22, Bluffton, did all three, according to his plea when arraigned in police court Monday morning on a charge of drunkenness.

According to the story told by Garau, he accidentally cut his finger. He had a little something stronger than 2.75, and the pain of the injury was so bad, he partook of the drink. It knocked him, he says. Garau then came to Lima to get sober, according to his story. He was arrested. Upon his plea of guilty he was fined $10.

SCHOOL GIRL TELLS OTHERS

How They Can Find Relief From Periodic Sufferings.

Nashua, N. H.—"I am nineteen years old and every month for two years I had such pain that I would often faint and have to leave school. I had such pain I did not know what to do with myself and tried so many remedies that were of no use. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and that is how I found relief from pain and feel so much better than I used to. When I hear of any girl suffering as I did I tell them how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me."—DELINA MARTIN, 29 Bowers St., Nashua, N. H.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from natural roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, therefore is a perfectly safe remedy to give your daughter, who suffers from such painful periods as did Miss Martin.

The reason so many girls write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice, is because from their 40 years experience they have a store of knowledge which is invariably helpful.

Wheeler Takes Issue Against Wets' Attorney

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Wayne B. Wheeler, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League of America, took issue today with the opinion by Elihu Root, William D. Guthrie and William L. Marbury, counsel for the United States Brewers' Association that the proposed war prohibition enforcement act is unconstitutional. Mr. Wheeler also denied that the league forces intended to start an anti-tobacco campaign.

"The authority of congress to enact the war prohibition law," Mr. Wheeler said, "rests on the provisions in the constitution which give congress power to support the army and navy. This power and obligation extends through demobilization. The courts have so held. Congress evidently intended to prohibit all beer and wine in the original act. Some of the courts hold the act does this. Others hold differently.

Congress is simply trying to make clear the intention of the original act."

Referring to charges of the Association Opposed to National Prohibition that the Anti-Saloon League was actively aiding in a campaign of the Women's Christian Temperance Union against tobacco, Mr. Wheeler said:

"The anti-tobacco scarecrow of the anti-prohibition association does not fool any one. The Anti-Saloon League forces have no intention to start this crusade. The liquor traffic is a public nuisance. The tobacco habit may be a private or personal bad habit, but it is not in the same class as intoxicating liquor."

NO NEED FOR SHERLOCK HOLMES

"When an old line Democrat sees a Republican organ in his store or home, then he knows something is wrong," said a prominent county official this afternoon.

This statement was made following a conversation of which William Grunder, 15, who was arrested here Saturday night on a charge of stealing a can of talcum powder from Hunter's Drug store, was the topic. Grunder, according to juvenile authorities, has confessed to stealing a pair of overalls from the store of Levi Crites, at Snyder's Crossing, and then hid them in Crites' potato bin.

Crites looking through the bin discovered something wrapped in a copy of the local Republican organ. Crites says when he saw the paper, he exclaimed: "There's something wrong here. Why there hasn't been one of these things about my house for years." So strong was this hunch that something had gone wrong, Crites investigated the parcel and discovered the overalls which had previously been taken from his store officials say.

Grunder is being held by juvenile authorities and will be given a hearing in juvenile court Tuesday morning.

Before the day was over the hen laid two more, making a record eleven for the day.

TO REPEAL ELECTION ORDER.

About the most important question to come before council at its regular meeting Monday evening is the repeal of legislation calling for a special election on August 12, for the purpose of letting citizens decide whether or not Lima is to have a commission form of government.

If this is done it is very probable new legislation calling for the question to be decided at the regular election, November 4 will be enacted. Other than these two items, there is nothing but the regular routine to come up before the body this evening.

O. E. TRAINMEN MEET OFFICIALS AT SPRINGFIELD

Trainmen and officials of the Ohio Electric Railway company resumed their conference in Springfield; Monday morning, according to advices received in this city. The latest reports state that the carmen are asking for an advance of from 45 cents an hour to 55 cents an hour.

Before entering the conference, Monday, hope for an amicable settlement of the difficulties, was expressed by both sides. Indications are the conference will last until a late hour Monday afternoon, after which it is anticipated a statement will be given out by officials of the company.

Will Decide Upon Salvation Home Site This Evening

Brigadier Withers, of the Salvation Army is expected to arrive in Lima Monday evening, to decide whether the proposed site recently purchased by the Salvation Army on South Main street, will be suitable for such a home. Protests made by South Main street business men against use of the property for a Salvation Army home, will be considered also. Brigadier Withers, who is chief of this division, is located at Cleveland.

THEY SURE KNEW WHAT THEY WANTED

The old adage says "Matches are made in heaven, etc." but one young benedict knows that licenses are made in the court house, but he evidently has a small conception of what they were made. This morning, the said young benedict, with his blushing bride to be on his arm, entered the court house. The first person he encountered was Sheriff Baxter.

Now you don't need any blue print to tell when a young couple have been smitten by Dan'l Cupid, so the sheriff stood his ground, and prepared his answer. He, however, was literally taken off his feet when the prospective asked: "Can you inform me where the marriage license shop is?"

The sheriff conducted the pair to the "shop" and then remarked: "I've heard it called many things, but that's the first time I ever heard it called 'shop'."

ASKS FOR DIVORCE.

Alleging that her husband, Ralph Warren, ordered her to leave home only a few months after her marriage, Ethel Warren, Monday afternoon, filed suit for divorce from him in common pleas court. The couple were married May 11, 1914, and she says, on September 9, 1914, he ordered her to leave home, and refused to live with her.

According to the petition, Warren shortly after that was ordered to pay his wife $10 a month. He has been doing this, but it is not enough to support her and a child, she says. She asks for alimony.

RIOT DEAD COUNT AT CHICAGO IS 33; GRAND JURY CALLED

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—After the calmest night in the "black belt" for more than a week, the work was begun today of selecting a grand jury before which will come the cases of white men and negroes who are accused of participation in the race riots which caused the death of 20 negroes and 12 whites, and the injury of hundreds.

The coroner has fixed the number of dead at 33 and the city health commissioner has found that 306 people injured in the riots were treated in hospitals. He expressed the opinion, however, that perhaps 100 or more who were injured in the riots never reported at hospitals and consequently the total number of injured will never be known officially.

The state troops had little to do during the night in the riot zone, but much excitement was caused early today by persistent reports telephoned into headquarters of the second regiment, that a crowd of 500 men was gathering at South Ashland avenue and West Fifty-ninth street. When a company of troops reached the scene the crowd vanished and the soldiers returned to headquarters. Several thousand negroes who expected to return to work in the stock yards today, after nearly a week's absence on account of the riots must wait until the unrest caused by the disturbances in the district has subsided. After announcing that the colored men would return to work today, superintendents of all the large packing plants decided that it would be prudent to hold the negroes at their homes for an indefinite period.

CALLS GARDNERS

CINCINNATI, Aug. 4.—Market gardeners were subpoenaed as witnesses today before the Hamilton county grand jury investigating the food situation in Cincinnati. John Sauer, foreman of the grand jury said today that a pretty good general survey of the situation has been obtained and that the inquiry would be pushed to the limit in fixing the responsibility of the high prices of food.

WILL NOT AFFECT PLANTS

YOUNGSTOWN, Aug. 4.—Blast furnaces in the Youngstown district will not be affected by the strike of the railroad shophmen unless the trouble is stretched over a long period. Mills here obtain most of their ore from the Minnesota district and have enough to last them one month. All but two blast furnaces in this district are in operation.

CITIZENS ON PACIFIC COAST HAIL FLEET AS SEA PROTECTION

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—Division of the United States navy and despatch to this coast of the Pacific fleet marks the end of a long campaign that has been waged by officials and citizens of Pacific states for what they termed "adequate naval protection."

The Pacific coast attitude had been that great possibility of attack menaced the Pacific states unless the nation sent westward a large fleet.

Active campaigning for a big Pacific naval force began with the close of the Spanish-American war. It was urged that the Philippines and other Pacific islands possessed by the United States should be protected. Governors, congressional representatives and other officials made strong representations in the months following that war for increased naval strength on the Pacific.

After the building of the Panama canal many men in public life asserted that, in case of attack from the Pacific and destruction of the canal the largest part of the country's naval force would be kept away from the Pacific for a long period.

during which the Pacific states would be open to invasion. Public men and newspapers of the Pacific coast were practically a unit for naval expansion and ultimate station of a large force here.

Plans for curtailing naval expansion with the signing of the armistice in some quarters were countered by many insistent demands from this coast that the full building program be adhered to.

The announcement of Secretary Daniels that the navy was to be divided and approximately 200 ships stationed in the Pacific was hailed with delight.

G. O. P. WINS IN KY.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 4.—Political circles of Kentucky were aroused by the developments of Saturday's statewide primaries. The remarkable triumph of Gov. James D. Black for Governor and the sensational victory of King Swope, a republican, of Danville, who was elected to congress from the Eighth District, were outstanding features which furnished both parties with material for lively gossip and spirited comment.

We contend that the only means of disposing our 1919 summer stock would be by reductions in price of the merchandise to the extent that the patrons of this great store could readily see the advantage of buying. We may add that quite a nice assortment of desirable styles and models is in this assemblage and still here for your selection.

To buy clothing at these sale prices would be the soundest kind of good sense. If the present advance in price is continued and every indication points to that way, your next summer clothes will cost you twice as much.

We know that many men will take the tip as we are in constant touch with leading manufacturers and they assure us that prices will go skyward everyday.

Don't delay but come in tomorrow and select several suits, some of the models are suitable for Fall wear—and you will be money ahead. Investing in clothes today is like a savings account in the bank—it will accumulate interest.

Price and Policy

—The agitation against rising prices which culminated in State and City investigations was brought about through conditions attending the Great World War.

—Some of these causes were unavoidable—higher wages, shorter hours, scarcity of materials and labor, heavy demands for all kinds of merchandise and other deep economic causes.

—Besides this there has undoubtedly been considerable unnecessary raising of prices—a species of "squeezing" that has come to be known as Profitteering.

—For the latter there was no excuse whatever—only the selfish, unprincipled, sordid motives of the business man who cared little for his country or its people so long as he was able to reap exorbitant profits for himself.

—This store has absolutely refrained from any form of speculation or profiteering during the War—our record proves this.

—Our policy then was and now is to buy as low as possible and sell as low as possible consistent with good business principles.

—For the latter there was no excuse whatever—only the selfish, unprincipled, sordid motives of the business man who cared little for his country or its people so long as he was able to reap exorbitant profits for himself.

—At least the results have been gratifying. We serve a much larger number of people than before—consequently have a much greater volume of business, and more satisfaction in feeling that we have honestly served the public even if our rate of profit is smaller.

—You may be assured that when prices rise in this store it is due to an increase beyond our control and that our efforts are constantly exerted to buy at the lowest possible prices and sell accordingly.

Keep This in Mind

THESE ARE the days when over-sympathetic persons of a certain type would do well to watch themselves and keep their memories sharpened. Else they are likely to find themselves commiserating over Kaiser Bill when they read that he is so badly scared over the prospects of being tried for his misdeeds that he spends his days in gloomy meditation and prayer, and that he prefers to talk on religious subjects only. He is literally sick with apprehension. We may well believe that his ruling thought is: "What are they going to do with me? Hang me or shoot me?"

Americans who feel themselves slipping, who find themselves beginning to pity the Kaiser and deprecate the "hard" terms thrust upon Germany, would do well to recall a few events in recent history as these:

The slaughter of aged men and women, as well as children, in Belgium in 1914.

The shooting down of defenseless and inoffensive persons held as hostages.

The desecration of countless homes.

The maiming of children.

The Lusitania slaughter.

The execution of Edith Cavell.

Poison gas, air raids, deportation of girls to Germany, "spurious versenkt," the shelling of lifeboats, crucifixion of prisoners, burning of elevators and grain ships in America, bomb outrages.

It will do to remember that Kaiser Bill, now mumbling prayers and shuddering in his boots, was only a little more than a year ago brandishing his shining sword before the world and vowing that he would bring all opposing peoples to their knees before him.

Did he waste much sympathy on anyone then? Not that we recall. "When the devil was sick, the devil a saint would be; when the devil was well, the devil a saint was he."

A Gross Materialist

THE NEW YORK Tribune says that Henry Ford is anything but an idealist—a "gross materialist." In fact, is what the Tribune calls him, and this in an editorial discussing Ford's replies to the attorneys. "If I wanted to know about it, I would hire a man to tell me in five minutes," and again, "the only way I can do anything is by hiring a god expert." Commenting upon which the Tribune says:

"It is difficult to imagine anything which more compactly sets out the state of mind which has made the rich man offensive and caused money to be rated as the root of evil. Ford has not seemed to be specially obnoxious—is considered by some to be a bungling sort of idealist. But here he is blatantly revealing that at the bottom he is a gross materialist. Everything is for sale, you can buy anything; if you have money enough, you do not need to know anything. The degree to which this pocket book master has been infected is indicated by the circumstance that he spoke spontaneously. He had no idea that he was revealing anything to his discredit. He took it as a matter of course that one needs but to press a golden button to be served as were Oriental despots who summoned genii by rubbing a ring or a lamp."

But Ford probably didn't mean it that way. He is a modern manufacturer. He knows that he must have men learned in many arts, and that these men are to be hired. He probably meant that it was possible under present conditions to employ men in any branch of learning to co-operate with him, even to the extent of furnishing him with an understanding of the day's events, which he himself, by reason of his employment in other lines, had not the time to acquire.

Books and Life

IN A RECENT magazine article Henry Waterson referred to "philosophers more learned in books than in life," an expression that accounts for a great many failures among men who are credited with much wisdom. If there is any just criticism of our colleges and universities at this time, it is that they pay too much attention to books.

It is a common enough expression among a certain class that all of the knowledge of the world is to be found in books. But it is not true. Much of the most helpful knowledge of the world has never been and never will be printed in books. It can not be written down, to be memorized like a pagan prayer, nor put upon a blackboard to be absorbed by students in the colleges and universities. This useful knowledge pertains to life and must be gained from life.

The schools are doing wondrous well. Schools of salesmanship; schools of journalism; schools of psychology; schools of everything under the sun. They have their mission, and they help. But they do not turn out the finished product, and he who depends upon the philosophy which he learns in the schools will be a miserable failure in the end.

HAPPY THOUGHT: You can't call 'em Cincinnati Shreds this season.

The food profiteer seems to have the idea that to stabilize prices you must drive them to the high notch and keep them there.

No wonder Old King Cole is such a cheerful old soul. He is down in the cellar where prohibition doesn't prohibit.

Too many bald headed fathers fuss about the way their daughters wear their hair.

Knock the hi out of Ohio when it comes to food prices.

GOOD EVENING—Talk about inflated money; the talk about movie actors and actress's salaries sounds to us like the same of inflated money.

The Times' Family Doctor

WHAT "CHARLIE HORSE" AND
SPRAINS ARE—HOW TREATEDBy DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG
A. B., M. A., M. D. (John Hopkins University)

"Charlie horse" is the name which arose perhaps when some Charlie took his first gallop on horseback. Forty-eight hours later or sooner, Charlie was doubtless stiff and sore. Joints, tendons and ligaments which he had never jostled or used so severely previously were stretched beyond their habitual endurance.

The result of this kind of an experience is pain and soreness. Baseball players in their early spring training suffer "Charlie horse" of the throwing arm, the calves and ankles. Swimmers, tennis players and others suffer similarly.

Sprains are sudden, abrupt injuries analogous to "Charlie horse," but a bit more troublesome.

Wherever two or more bones come together they form a joint. The joint is surrounded by a closed sac called the joint capsule. This sac contains a slippery fluid which serves to lubricate the joint and permits the bones to move smoothly. The joint capsule is not sufficiently strong to prevent the bones from being torn apart, an additional strength is furnished to the joint by strong bands of tissue, which are known as ligaments. It will be noted that some joints, such as those in the fingers, move only back and forward, while other joints, as, for example, the hip joint, will permit of movement in practically all directions.

Sprains are produced by a wrench or a twist of a joint, ankle, wrist, shoulder or knee.

There was an old saying that "old sprains were worse than fractures." As a matter of fact, many of these "sprains" are in reality small or partial fractures near the joint, especially when involving the ankle. In severe sprains of the shoulder, wrist or ankle an X-ray examination of the affected part should always be made. Sprains of the ankle in which extensive areas of black and blue skin are observed, extending for a considerable distance up the leg are almost always accompanied by fractures. There is severe pain, which is always increased by motion of the joint, and hence there is often apparent lack of ability to move the limb. Also there is swelling and sometimes redness, and later on possible discoloration.

Complete Rest Necessary.
Absolute rest to the joint is imperative. If the sprain is at the wrist or shoulder, put the arm in a sling. If a knee or ankle is involved put the patient to bed and rest the joint on a pillow. Hot water compresses, a thick dressing large enough completely to wrap around the joint and well above it are applicable to the patient. Continue the compresses until the pain and swelling subside. Then cautiously begin rubbing with alcohol diluted with an equal amount of water. Later, in addition to the rubbing, which should become gradually more vigorous, begin gently to move the joints by grasping the hand or foot and moving it in various directions. These motions should be made by an expert manipulator after X-rays show no broken fragments.

Severe sprains and strains which resist ordinary treatment have sometimes been greatly benefited by being baked in dry air at a very high temperature.

Strapping an Aid.
Sprains of the ankle joint are often treated by strapping with adhesive plaster. Take strips about an inch wide and apply them snugly to the sides of the ankle, running around the heel and to the sides of the foot encephalic. Be sure, however, to leave a strip of skin which is not covered by the plaster extending all the way up the front of the foot and ankle. The whole leg must not be encircled by the plaster. Plaster applied in this fashion makes in reality a flexible splint and gives considerable support to the joint. It can be worn for three or four weeks if necessary.

Physicians very frequently use plaster of paris casts in the treatment of severe sprains. The joint should be thoroughly protected by some resilient material such as a woolen bandage, a smoothly applied layer of cotton batting or a couple of thicknesses of cotton stocking. The cast is applied from just behind the toes to a little above the middle of the calf. Great care should be taken in putting on that the circulation is not obstructed and the toes should be frequently examined in order to be certain of this point. If pain follows the application of the cast or the toes become blue or dark the cast should be immediately removed.

No; it was held to be inexpedient. The formal resolution on the subject that the Ohio legislature adopted recited that the general assembly of this state considered slavery "an evil of the most alarming nature on the gradual abolishment of which depends in a great measure our future happiness and prosperity as a nation," and was aware that "any additional importation of that unhappy race would, independent of the outrage committed on them, entail lasting curse on the country."

The resolution of North Carolina was regarded as "reflecting highest honor on that state," but as the term beyond which congress would have full power to legislate in the matter would soon end, notwithstanding the fact that the practice was impolitic as well as inhuman in the extreme, and altogether repugnant to the principles on which our government is founded, the legislature of Ohio looked upon the provision in the constitution by which the trade was not to be interfered with before 1808, as a compact between the states which should not be broken; therefore it was resolved that the amendment proposed by the legislature of North Carolina was "not expedient."

Of course this was not the slave question pure and simple but it was a closely subsidiary one, and a matter on which the two states occupied exactly opposite positions later on.

Short Stories of the Buckeye StateOHIO AND NORTH CAROLINA
CHANGE POSITIONS.

The journal of the Ohio legislature for the year 1805 contains an interesting record regarding a proposition emanating from a southern state—North Carolina—to arrest the importation of slaves. It might be hard for one familiar with the attitude of Ohio a half century later, and knowing the doctrine of the ordinance of 1787 on which this state was established, to understand the action that the state took the third year after her admission to the Union on a slavery question.

The governor, Edward Tiffin, had sent to the legislature a formal resolution of the southern state, authorizing congress immediately to stop the further importation of colored people as slaves. Did this state endorse the amendment?

No; it was held to be inexpedient. The formal resolution on the subject that the Ohio legislature adopted recited that the general assembly of this state considered slavery "an evil of the most alarming nature on the gradual abolishment of which depends in a great measure our future happiness and prosperity as a nation," and was aware that "any additional importation of that unhappy race would, independent of the outrage committed on them, entail lasting curse on the country."

The resolution of North Carolina was regarded as "reflecting highest honor on that state," but as the term beyond which congress would have full power to legislate in the matter would soon end, notwithstanding the fact that the practice was impolitic as well as inhuman in the extreme, and altogether repugnant to the principles on which our government is founded, the legislature of Ohio looked upon the provision in the constitution by which the trade was not to be interfered with before 1808, as a compact between the states which should not be broken; therefore it was resolved that the amendment proposed by the legislature of North Carolina was "not expedient."

coal mines? They have plenty of ground and enough people to do the work. Why pay millions to the beef trust, dairy trust, coal trust, etc.?

All these things can be done just as easily as they can make brick, weave cloth and manufacture clothing. Everything that the penal institutions need for their existence can be produced by them. A little system, and the right man behind them with the right ideas, and they will cease to be burdens on the state citizen.

OUR BED-TIME STORY

FOR TINY TIMES-DEMOCRAT FOLKS

The news that the robbers had entered the castle again, despite the heavy guard made the king and queen look grave.

So far the robbers had contended themselves with carrying away booty from the castle, but all realized that should the king or queen come upon them in their work, an attempt might be made to kill either one or both.

Ladydear and Captain Brave thought, too, that the robbers might decide to carry away one of the children just as the prince, of whom the king had spoken, had been kidnapped and held for ransom so many years ago. Because they were guests at the king's home the robbers might decide that they could make the king pay a big sum for the return of one of the children.

However, it seemed as if there was nothing to do but lay and wait again for the robbers the next night. The children were told not to ride away on their ponies or go out in the big purple car that day.

The king and queen and even Ladydear and Captain Brave were too worried about the events of the past few nights to pay much attention to the children. The little folks stayed close to the castle all day. That night not a sound was heard of a robber seen and a most careful search in the morning showed that nothing had been taken.

Everyone was relieved to think that the robberies had ended, but it was decided to keep guard at least another night. Most of the guards spent the day trying to get some clue as to how the robbers got in and where they took their plunder.

That afternoon the queen and Ladydear decided to free their minds of the burglaries a while and entertain the children by taking them up to see the old ruins at the top of the mountain. With one of the guards along to help them over the roughest places and to carry a basket of good things to eat when they got to the top of the mountain, they started off, Booth taking the lead, of course.

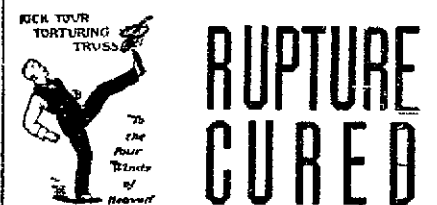

The ruins were just what Jack had imagined them to be. What once had been a great stone castle was now just a pile of stones. The roof had caved in of course, but many of the rooms still held their shape. The great cellars under the ruins were open. Narrow stairways covered with bits of broken stone and rotten wood led down into the cellars.

There were large pieces of furniture and broken statues and a number of rusty old suits of armor standing about. Two or three of these suits in a gloomy part of the cellar stood upright against the wall.

Jack who was somewhat ahead of the girls and the ladies while they were roaming through the underground rooms, climbed into one of these suits and, when the girls came by, scared them almost into smithereens, and you all know how much that is, by letting out a mournful sound like he had heard of ghosts making.

On the way home from the ruins Jack couldn't help but think what great sport he and some of the neighboring boys could have playing robbers there.

FAUROT—FRED STONE

Fred Stone's best picture. There's no argument about it at all. It is the best thing the popular comedian has done for the screen and it comes might close to being the best role he has ever had, on stage or screen. It should go over with a bang for it has been well directed, contains a wonderfully effective mixture of laughs and thrills, is well played and produced with attention to even the smallest detail.

"Johnny Get Your Gun" is a filmization of the stage that Limaites laughed over when it was presented at the Faurot. The stage version was built for laughing purposes only and the same is true of the film play. It is a good clean comedy from beginning to end. The laughs come thick and fast and when one is not laughing he is gasping at the hair raising stunts of the star. Fans will like this picture, they can't help it for the whole play is made up of a most novel series of events.

Fred Stone is excellently cast as the happy-go-lucky, honest cowboy that stops at nothing to gain his ends and makes everybody he comes in contact with either love him devotedly or hate him like the dickens. Mr. Stone romps through this part as if he enjoyed it and it's a cinch that all who see him will enjoy the experience. The supporting cast has been well chosen. Good work is done by Mary Anderson, Nina Byron, Casson Ferguson and Raymond Hatton. James Cruze puts over a hard role in fine fashion and takes some mighty rough treatment.

"Johnny Get Your Gun" is a comedy drama of the finest kind. They don't make them much better or more entertaining than this one.

The Pathe News, Bray Cartoons and Paramount Pictographs complete the program. Last Times tonight.

ORPHEUM

Te famous comedy, "Peck's Bad Boy," has been wheeling around the country for years and everywhere it has been presented there has been but one verdict by press and public, namely, that it is one of the most entertaining and satisfying stage creations which has ever been devised. Each one of its characters is such a person as one meets every day in real life and the mixups in which the characters are pictured are just as natural as they could be.

The show this season is a grand revival as it has been entirely reconstructed by Irving Berlin, who has turned it into a musical farce pretty girls who know how to sing and dance beautiful costumes and appropriate scenery all go to make Peck's Bad Boy up to the minute musical show, a special ladies and childrens matinee will be given at 2:30. man and woman—that's where Constance Talmadge shines. It is Miss Talmadge's clever portrayals of parts of this nature which have drawn to her an exceptionally large following of screen patrons.

Just such a role has this beautiful and vivacious young star in her latest Select Picture, "Happiness A La Mode," in which she is presented at the Lyric today.

In this sprightly and breezy comedy, plus drama, Miss Talmadge plays the part of a young and beautiful wife who finds the same problem confronting her that many other young wives have had to face: Her husband grows restless and begins to favor another woman. But this little wife proves to be just as clever as the other woman and the way she wins back her husband and fools her rival, forms a very entertaining story and one that everyone will certainly enjoy.

Miss Talmadge's work in this production is, as useful, delightful, buoyant and effective as "Happiness A La Mode" reaches the zenith of what a gay and sparkling comedy ought to be. It will drive the bluest blues away.

A Traveling Man's Experience.
You may learn something from the following by W. H. Ireland, a traveling salesman of Louisville, Ky. "In the summer of 1888 I had a severe attack of cholera morbus. I gave the hotel porter fifty cents and told him to buy me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy and to take no substitute. I took a double dose of it according to the directions and went to sleep. At five o'clock the next morning I was called by my order and took a train for my next stopping place, a well man."

AWFUL SCENES AS KALUT VOLCANO LETS LOOSE; 5100 DIE

SINGAPORE, Aug. 4.—The awful scenes which prevailed when the volcano of Kalut in Java burst into eruption on May 20, destroyed 26 villages and caused a loss of life estimated by some at 50,000, are vividly described by Miss E. W. Cranen, who has arrived here from Sourabaya.

A river of boiling mud and lava which overwhelmed the village of Blitar where Miss Cranen was staying, she says, was ten miles wide and four feet deep.

The first symptoms of the coming eruption, Miss Cranen said, were sounds like thunder and vivid flashes in the sky. Enormous boulders were flung from the volcano into the few lands around it for immense distances. There was pitchy darkness owing to a rain of ashes.

Then came warning to the occupants of the hotel at Blitar that the river of lava and mud was approaching. "We were almost beside ourselves as to what to do to avoid a hideous end," she said. Twenty-four of those staying at the hotel escaped death in the boiling mud by fleeing aboard a motor car driven by the wife of the assistant resident commissioner.

According to Miss Cranen the river of mud ran for three hours and wrought fearful damage to life and property. It covered the railway station, buried the locomotives and cars and destroyed virtually every house in Blitar, Wlingi and Srengat.

A Mr. Bookholt managed to rescue his wife and some of his children, but owing to the velocity of the mud river was unable to save two of his little ones, who perished before his eyes. One European while in bed in his house, was carried away and deposited miles distant.

A Sourabaya paper which places the total loss of life at 50,000 says that 15 Europeans perished, and that after the volcano subsided the arms and legs of the victims were seen protruding through the mud all over Kediri district, in the vicinity of Kalut. Many thousands of persons are reported missing.

It is learned that three lava streams flowed from the volcano all taking the same course as in the eruption of 1901. One of these destroyed Blitar. Government geologists who ascended to the crater of Kalut after the eruption found it empty.

The Dutch governor of the devastated district reported that 5,100 persons were killed in the eruption of Kalut.

KNOCK PROPS FROM UNDER ICE BOOST

TOLEDO, Aug. 4.—Although Toledo ice dealers are receiving a minimum price of $15 a ton for ice, three Indiana manufacturers offer to deliver all the ice Toledo can use at not to exceed $7.68 a ton, freight included.

Mayor Schreiber, who has taken personal charge of the ice probe here, declared information given him by investigators is that there is a sufficient supply in this city and no just basis for boosting prices from $7 a ton to $15 and $20.

The Indiana manufacturers' offer will be accepted, it was said today.

SAYS RURAL FIRES CAN BE PREVENTED

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4.—"We are losing too much grain and other foodstuffs by fire," says State Fire Marshal T. Alfred Fleming, in a report to Governor Cox.

"These fires in the rural districts, Fleming says, are mainly due to improper use of lightning rods or no rods at all to lack of proper screens on smoke stacks of locomotives and to carelessness among threshers and the use of matches in grain fields.

"Realizing that losses in rural communities have been out of all proportion to what they should be in Ohio," says Fleming, "we have pushed the idea of community fire protection and fire apparatus ownership."

Fleming recommends that farmers have the simple tools with which fire can be fought and emphasizes the necessity of abolishing causes that lead to a large number of the farm fires.

Poor rodding, smokers' carelessness, sparks from machinery, automobiles in barns, burning grass, rubbish and brush, and spontaneous combustion are the hazards to be combated, he says.

The campaign among school children of the state on fire prevention Fleming says, is bearing an abundant harvest. The department prepared for Clean-up Week a questionnaire that has since been adopted by other states. In one city 4100 children reported over 3000 dangerous rubber hose connections.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

At a handsomely appointed luncheon at the Lima club Saturday, Miss Fanny Hughes, daughter of Mr. R. J. Hughes, of West Market street, announced her engagement to Charles Hoyer. Both are popular members of society of the west side. Mr. Hoyer being particularly well known in business circles, where his ability is assured.

The announcement was made in a very clever manner. The predominating note in the color scheme was Dutch blue, there being a mammoth plat of all sorts of cut flowers, pink and lavender sweet peas, and pink and yellow tea roses, with the blue of the lispur predominating over all. Tiny lamps, exact replicas of the large one in the center, done in silver, with blue shades, further carried out the color scheme and also served as a means of announcing the pretty secret, for just beneath the shade there was found a card bearing the initials "C. A. H. and F. R. H. October."

Covers were laid for the following, mostly members of the Girls' Embroidery club: Mrs. Robert Horn and house-guest, Mrs. Charles Albrecht, of New Orleans; Mrs. Stoneburner, Mrs. Brice Appias, Mrs. Will Daniels, Mrs. Paul Steuber, Mrs. Guy Bailey, Mrs. Homer Hughes and house-guest, Mrs. Will Alkon, of El Paso; Mrs. Glen Stroul, Mrs. Bert Farber, of Columbus Grove, Mrs. Alfred Wemmer, Mrs. Francis Durbin, Mrs. H. M. Crawford, Mrs. E. Hoyer, Mrs. Charles Herbst, Miss Evelyn Davidson, Miss Mary Duffield, Miss Helen Bowers, Miss Lenna Rudy, Miss Audrey Ackerman, Miss Ruth Parmenter and the hostess.

A Chance to Live

(By Zoe Beckley)

WHEN THERE IS NO CHANCE.

"You're American-born, for one thing," said Nena. "Oh, yes, maybe your father was Irish, and came away from a poor home. But you could always speak the language. You never had to be hoisted at in the street because you didn't know how to talk English and called 'sheeny' and get spit at!"

"And your pa and your ma, no matter if they was poor, they wasn't slaves like our people, kicked around and starved from knowing anything! You had folks back of you, Annie Hargan, that made you what you are now. Folks that had their health and strength and were free to go where they liked and do what they liked—not like my folks in Russia!"

"You got only four in your family, too. And you live in three rooms I got nine in my family and we only got one room more.

"You got a bed right by a window where you get air. My sister and my two little brothers and me all sleep in one room and it has no window at all! And what was your father? He got a place as a book-keeper or something, didn't he? And earned maybe sixteen, eighteen dollars? My father was a tailor. He got eleven dollars a week. Eleven dollars for nine people! I never knew what it was in my life to have enough to eat at one time till I was past sixteen. What do you know about being hungry?"

"Besides, you got an aunt—a nice lady with education and a job in an office. If your folks got in trouble, she'd help you. At least, you would not starve. When I started work in the shops I got six dollars a week, stitching cuffs. Nothing else—just stitching cuffs. They never put me on anything else, so I never could learn anything else. If I was sick one day, the whole family had to eat less that week."

"I used to work nights till I fainted in front of my machine. And my ma used to take in pants-finisher for four cents a dozen! I remember a lady come around once from some settlement house and scolded mother for letting the kids work on the pants. And told her that if she needed any help she should go ask the Charities. What I want to know is, where does this city save anything by letting us people work our hands off for nothing, and then sending us to the Charities to get help?"

"That's what I want to know. 'I tell you it makes me sick, this sympathy we get for being poor! We don't want any sympathy! We want help to change things! Swell chance we've got to 'get along' like you say, and 'improve ourselves' like that woman at the settlement house used to tell us girls! Tell me—where's our chance? Why, we have not got any chance! Unless it's strikes. And that's my business from now on."

"I'm glad you've got your nice work, and your young man, and everything," laughed Nena Rabicovich in a softer voice, getting up to go. "But don't go getting any mob ideas that everybody in this free country's got a chance! If they're born with good health and character enough to push their way through alive, like me, maybe they have. But I ain't going to get snug and go ahead of them. I'm going to stay back and help the others get a chance to live. Good-night, Ann."

Like Being Hit By Rattle Snake

Says that every time you cut or pick at a corn you invite lockjaw

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called frezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn, the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts out with the fingers, without one particle of pain.

This frezone is a sticky substance which dries the moment it is applied and just loosens the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. He says a quarter of an ounce will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but this is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You are positively warned that cutting or picking at a corn is a suicidal habit.

TREW NOV CLUB

Mrs. L. C. Bogart, of West Wayne street, will entertain the members of the Trew Nov club, Thursday afternoon.

MUSKRATS DESTROY MILL DAM.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Muskrats digging a hole in a dam erected in 1891-1892 have forced the Seiber & Chapman grist mill at Adams to close. The dam had withstood the ravages of time, but succumbed to the attacks of the rats. The dam was built by Daniel Smith for a grist mill which superseded the stump mortars of the earliest settlers at Adams, which was then known as Smith mills.

THE BUTTERFLY CAUGHT

The truth is that I never in my whole life really wanted to be married. It came to me when I stood with one satin-shod foot on the threshold of the cathedral waiting for the organist's preliminary chords to merge into Lohengrin's "Here Comes the Bride."

Psychologists have tried to tell us what a woman's thoughts are when she paces slowly toward the altar on the arm of some male relative who is always out of step. I think it depends upon the woman. I only know of one who was saying to herself reverently "Dear God, make me a good wife"—and she eloped with someone else's husband next year. Most of the brides I've known have confessed that they were more concerned about the hang of their train or the insistence of an unmuzzled pin than the forthcoming ceremony.

I was halfway up the aisle before I had any thoughts at all—just a delightfully confused impression of fragrant flowers, lighted tapers, throbbing music and well-dressed people. Then quite suddenly my deliberately down-bent gaze raised sufficiently to meet other eyes and the thought, "What a perfectly stunning man," popped into my head. It proved an omen.

I looked down again hastily a little shocked that such a thought should have come to me on my way to the altar to meet another man. Did I expect a work some stranger alighting. I wonder to change the humming bird into the dove?

There were men among my wedding guests who had been my admirers and who still loved me. Others I had flirted with at dances and house parties. Several I had become engaged to for periods of more or less duration. And I was giving them all up for Paul.

Quite suddenly, at the very foot of the chancel stairs, where the purplerobed minister a solemn figure above me, I wondered—why?

Not that I didn't love him. After two restless years I am still sure of that. I may have questioned it at that moment, but when he stepped forward and took my hand in his warm, firm clasp, all doubt of my affection for him left me. But in that very hour while I repeated my responses unthinkingly (how many people who are being married know what they are promising) I was aware of the overwhelming number of attractive men in my wedding company. There was Paul's best man, and Martin Fandall and Harvey Drayton among the ushers—and the fascinating stranger on Paul's side of the reserved pews.

I cannot tell you today a word of the wedding ritual, though I have heard it repeated many times since I remember well the triumphant progress down the aisle when I was the cynosure of eyes and knew that I was lovely. I even forgot the stunning stranger until he appeared at the breakfast, which was a kaleidoscopic whirl of flowers and cakes and kisses and compliments.

The slam of the limousine door shutting out the laughing, confetti-throwing throng, brought me back to earth.

"Forsaking all others—" Where had I heard the phrase?

MAY LICENSE SODA BARS IN TOLEDO

TOLEDO, Aug. 4.—To overcome the loss of liquor revenue amounting to $200,000 annually, City Finance Director Martin will submit a plan to council licensing drug stores, ice cream parlors, near-beer saloons and wholesale dealers in soft drinks. There are about 2,000 such dealers in Toledo. Martin suggests a tax of $100 a year for retailers and $500 for wholesalers.

KIWANIS POW-WOW AT ELKS' CLUB AT NOON ON TUESDAY

Arrangements are all perfected for the first luncheon and powwow of the Lima Kiwanis club, to be held in the banquet room of the Elks' club, Tuesday noon, August 5. Appellate Judge Kent W. Hughes, president of the organization, will wield the gavel, and there'll be something doing from start to finish.

Secretary Wallace H. King received a telegram today from Richard J. Birch, of Cleveland, governor of the Ohio Kiwanis district, saying that the latter expects to be present. Cincinnati, Toledo, Springfield, Dayton and other nearby Kiwanis cities, will be represented at the first pow-wow.

The Lima Kiwanis club has received an invitation from the Lorain Kiwanis club to participate in a big intercity meet in the latter city on August 20. A barbecue on the shores of Lake Erie will be a feature of the event, as also will be an address by International President Henry C. Elliott, of Montreal, Canada.

Lincoln Park Kiddies' Kites and More Base Ball

Supervisor Isenbarger Arranging Big Outing Program for Benefit of East Enders for Friday, August 8.

CONGRATULATION in the most pronounced terms was a feature of the executive committee meeting of last Monday at the Y. M. C. A. of officials and chairmen of the Allen County Child Welfare Association. This was occasioned by the splendid results obtained at the first field meet held on the preceding Friday at Fawcett park. Only two officials were absent from this session, Vice President Rev. Franklin A. Stiles and Corresponding Secretary Mrs. W. C. Bell.

The guest of honor was Miss Elizabeth Shiebach, of Columbus, who is at the office of the Home Service, Red Cross during the absence of Mrs. Jackson. Others were Miss Huber the chairman at Bluffton, and Mrs. Martin the new chairman at Lafayette. The chief topic of discussion after hearing reports from Supervisor Isenbarger's field meet event and from Miss Moore in relation to the progress of the hand-workers' at the playgrounds, was the big annual campaign of this fall. Those who are interested in the children and have followed the wonderful work of the Child Welfare Association will recall the splendid results of the membership campaign of last year. A feature was the "tag day" program coming on election day and netting the association more than one thousand dollars.

Plans for the 1919 event contemplate the penetration of every township, village and precinct in the county with indisputable evidences of the great work being done among Allen county's future citizens, beginning on October 17th and ending on the 28th for the city drive, and staging a special drive on the county election day—the first Tuesday in November—when women representatives will be at every polling place with their membership paraphernalia.

The county campaign will be much more easily handled and should be correspondingly more profitable to the association now that the contemplated special work is actually in progress—the installation of the Rural Nurse, Miss Ida E. Nibel, the securing of special professional talent for remedial work among child defectives, etc.

In the city the splendid success of the playground movement with its supervisor and assistant for each of the five districts, Fawcett and Lincoln parks and Horace Mann, Garfield and Whittier schools—will place the seal of approval and operate to produce friends not otherwise obtainable.

It was determined also at this meeting to inaugurate the "Back-to-places it as from 15 to 25 per cent. Since this takes no count of the malnourished children under school age, or the "neglected period" between the ages of two and seven, when it is said, malnutrition usually has its beginning, from three to six million hungry American children is probably a conservative estimate.

"Hi, fellows, we're goin' 't have another big time with 'em!" next Friday, week. Hurrah!" Thus jubilantly announces Jimmy of the Fawcett park junior athletes to a crowd of neighbor gamins in the west end. Yes, it was decided because of the tremendous interest taken by the children in the event of last week to stage one each alternate week.

The next will therefore be on Friday, August 8th and this one will be at Lincoln park.

Supervisor Isenbarger is busy organizing another ball team (he has three full teams now) and promises some rare sport very soon with the little fellows lined up in regular league fashion for a series each bi-monthly meeting.

The supervisor reports more than 1000 children already enrolled at the five centers, and enthusiasm mounting at leaps and bounds. All the more popular events will be listed again for the coming picnic and outing and some new and popular ones. Another interesting feature of the report at the Y. M. C. A. meeting was that of the field worker, Miss Moore with an exhibit of handwork made by some of her young charges at the different play centers. Mr. Isenbarger will have a class in kite making soon.

One of the eagerly anticipated reports to be made by special experts and investigators in the child welfare field is that on "Malnutrition" to be ready in a few days it is announced, by Miss Lydia Roberts, the well known dietitian. Miss Roberts is preparing a treatise on the subject for the Children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor. According to Dr. Josephine Baker children of New York City are undernourished. And it is said the percentage for the entire United States is even higher. Dr. Thomas Wood

BRITISH NAVAL PAGEANT.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The important role played by the British sea services during the great war was commemorated today by a naval pageant on the Thames, the day marking the fifth anniversary of the historic mobilization of the British fleet. Plans for the event, while giving recognition to the allied and associated powers laid stress on the fact that this was a purely British occasion and the Union Jack and the banners of St. George, St. Patrick, St. Andrew and St. David predominated in the decorations along the riverside.

TODAY—"John Halifax, Gentleman," by Mrs. Mulock.

TOMORROW—"Jane Eyre," by Charlotte Brontë.

MULOCK

Dinah Maria Mulock was born at Stoke-upon-Trent on April 20, 1826, the daughter of a minister. She died October 12, 1887.

Mrs. Mulock picked up a good education despite the unsettled fortunes of her father. When she was but 20 years old she bravely started for London, whither she and all English people to try their fortunes, since Dick Whittington has shown the place.

There she was greatly helped by her own personal charm, and by the friendship of two men whose names were intimately connected with the book trade, Alexander Macmillan and Charles Edward Mudge. (She later married a member of the firm of Macmillan, G. L. Craik.)

She began her literary ventures with stories for young, but early won success with "The Old Maid," a delightful fairy story, "Alice Learmont," followed soon, as did novels, short stories and various other forms of expression. But she will always be remembered by one book, though her popularity in her time extended to many others.

DINAH MARIA MULOCK (Mrs. Craik), 1826-1887. The child in the picture is her granddaughter.

"John Halifax, Gentleman," published in 1857, is read today, as it was then, and will not fade as have the other works of its author.

John Halifax, Gentleman

By MRS. MULOCK

(Condensation by Basil King)

Though a boy of sixteen I was too ill and crippled to walk. Owing to the rain my father pushed my hand carriage under an archway. Taking shelter there we found a handsome boy of thirteen, well built, strong and looking more than his age.

Fearing to lose time from work in his tannery my father engaged this boy to push me home when the rain ceased. Arrived at our home I asked him for a meal. After his dinner in the kitchen he joined me in the dining-room, telling me something of his history. His name was John Halifax, an orphan, without home, relatives, or money, and so obliged to roam the country looking for work. His one treasure was a Greek Testament, on the fly-leaf of which was written the name of Guy Halifax.

In addition there were the entries of the marriage of Guy Halifax, gentleman, to Muriel Joyce, spinster, in the year 1779; of the birth of John Halifax in 1780; and of the death of Guy Halifax in 1781. Being unable to write the lad asked me the additional entry, "Muriel Halifax, died January 1st, 1791."

Never having had a companion I took to this boy as a friend, inducing my father, Abel Fletcher, to give him work in the tannery. It was humble work, at a pittance a week, and the boy took such care of himself as he could, sleeping in or on a pile of tanbark and eating no more than enough to keep him alive. Faithful and industrious, however, he won his master's confidence, he gradually progressed to better jobs, though still earning no more than a bare maintenance.

These were the days of hard times, incident to the Napoleonic wars, with scarcity both of work and food. As I was helpless it meant much to my father to have growing up under his eye a lad to whom his master's interests were his own. In a measure John Halifax took my place in the tannery, and during the later years from which my father retired, as did most employers of the time, my friend was always on hand to soothe the workmen and put up my father's property.

In proportion as Abel Fletcher grew old and infirm a greater measure of responsibility fell on the younger man's shoulders. By the time he was twenty-one my father was willing to take him into partnership, promoting him thus from the standing of a wall, which was that which he held in the eyes of our conservative fellow-townsmen in Norton Bury, in Gloucestershire, to that of a citizen. No young man ever deserved good fortune more. Development, too, a force of character which could not but be progressive, he more than once found himself at odds with the old Tory elements that had long held our townspeople in submission and contempt.

Chief among the petty tyrants of the aristocratic class were the Earl of Luxmore and his son-in-law, Richard Brithwood, the important landowners of our neighborhood. Hard-drinking, hard-riding and profligate, they made use to the full of those privileges of birth and position which in those days allowed the nobility to be overbearing to all whom they regarded as inferiors. Toward this spirit John Halifax bore himself respectfully but manfully, exciting the hatred of his opponents by defeating their ends. A combination of circumstances brought him in the long run into closer connection with both than either he or they cared to recognize.

When I was twenty-three and John Halifax twenty we took our first holiday together, looking at a farm house in the neighboring hills, where also some cousins of Richard Brithwood, Mr. March and his daughter, Ursula, were making a temporary residence. The father being an invalid, and growing rapidly worse while we were there, John Halifax was able to perform valuable services for the daughter. By the time the father died John and Miss March were in love. The difficulties of their marriage were of a kind only to be solved by overriding them. John Halifax was poor and a nobody, Ursula March was high-born and an heiress. When he would have retired it was she who, with the instincts of a big and noble heart, took matters into her own hands. She did this the more bravely, owing to the fact that Richard Brithwood, her guardian, had the power to withhold her income, which he did for years.

Their marriage was therefore in modest conditions, but none the less happy for that. Their first sorrow may be said to have come when their oldest child, Muriel, proved to have been born blind. Almost the last of my stern old father was to bless the babe and to proclaim her the child of peace.

Next to his wife this little blind girl was the object of her father's warmest affections. Three boys, Guy, Edwin, and Walter, were born after her, and lastly another little girl; but to none did the heart of John Halifax go out with the tenderness called forth by the little one who never seemed afflicted because of her sweet happiness. When at the age of eleven she was taken from them the father's youth forsook him and middle age began to draw on.

I now made my home with them, as a brother to the parents and an uncle to the children. The fulness of affection they showed each other was always shared with me. So too, I share in all the subsequent years of mingled prosperity and care.

They were the years, following Waterloo, of England's first great industrial expansion. John Halifax became one of the new nobility which then began to so large a degree to supplant the old, the nobility of commerce. His progressive mind was always looking for new outlets to his energies, which were also to include new phases of prosperity to the people roundabout, who more and more looked to him as leader. In addition to the business of which my father's death had made him master, he took over the old cloth mills at Enderley. Here Lord Luxmore was the proprietor, and to ruin the mills, and so ruin John, he deflected the stream on the pretext of needing the water to supply his own fountains. John Halifax was equal to the occasion. He had already been in touch with Arkright, who first used steam in the mills at Manchester. Steam was therefore introduced at Enderley, the income of the mill-owner doubling and trebling with each year. From the small house in town John and Ursula Halifax moved to a modest estate in the country, moving from that in the course of time to one of the great houses of the county, exerting with equal change a widening influence for good which in the Regent's days was rare.

But prosperity brought them no immunity from domestic trouble. Little Muriel's death was the first blow. Other blows followed soon. The boys grew up to be young men. With their love affairs came the first real discords in the family.

They began with the appearance of a governess for little Maud. She gave her name as Miss Silver. Beautiful, mysterious, and self-contained, she repelled Ursula's motherly sympathies by a coldness not explained until she proved to be Louise d'Argent, the daughter of a notorious French deputy under the Reign of Terror. But by this time the worst mischief was done since Guy, the eldest son, was in love with her. To accept her as Guy's future wife cost John and Ursula Halifax a struggle. It was a surprise to them, therefore, that Guy should be refused on the ground that Miss Silver was in love with another man. There was no relief in this, however, since the other man proved to be the second son, Edwin, who was also in love with her. Of this difficult situation the animosity between the two brothers was not the least of the trials the parents had to undergo. In a household where love had been the watchword the hatred of brothers was the harder to bear. Before Edwin was married Guy had gone abroad, nominally on business for his father, but really to be away from the sight of Edwin's happiness.

While this change eased the situation it was also the source of new anxieties. Disquieting reports were brought from Paris by the Earl of Luxmore's son, Lord Ravenel. From boyhood young Ravenel had entertained an admiration for his father's opponent, John Halifax, which had grown with time. The kindness always shown by Mr. and Mrs. Halifax to Lord Ravenel's sister, Lady Caroline Brithwood, whom her husband, Richard Brithwood, had divorced strengthened the attachment of a young man neglected by his father, to those who could take a stand of their own. Each time he returned to Luxmore Park young Ravenel made a refuge of the Halifax home. From Paris he brought news that Guy had come into the circle of the grey reprobate, Lord Luxmore, with little advantage to himself. Graver news followed that, a letter in Guy's own hand informed his parents that being drunk in a gambling house he had quarreled with Sir Gerard Vermilye, who years before had induced Lady Caroline to elope with him, had struck the man, and possibly killed him. He had now to flee from France. By the time the letter reached his parents he would have sailed for America.

If Muriel's death had ended John's youth Guy's disgrace did the same for his mother's. I first noticed that Ursula was beginning to grow old. Up to that time she had been a matron, ripening with serenity. More than maturity came into her beauty now, a sadness, a depression, which she rarely threw off. Though peaceful years came with the news that Guy had settled in Boston, where the business of which he had become the head was prospering, the light-heartedness went out of her home forever. It was a case that was the more true owing to the fact that on the day when Edwin was married I had surprised John, for whom my affection was that of Jonathan for David, "passing the love of women." In an unusual fit of pain, he had been so strong and well throughout all the years in which we had lived together as brothers that the thought of his suffering was new and strange to me. It became stronger if not newer when the paroxysms were repeated. This was only at long intervals, so that we were able to keep the secret to ourselves. Even Ursula did not know, and John bound me to silence till he himself spoke. It was not till Guy had been some years in America, and a little daughter had been born to Edwin and Louise, that John told me the doctor's verdict concerning him. He might live to an old age, or he might go at any minute. With the knowledge of this possibility my own death seemed to begin.

Nevertheless more years went by with no greater disturbance to the current of our lives than a sudden perplexity with regard to Maud. It was not only with regard to Maud, but with regard to Lord Ravenel. Why neither John nor Ursula had foreseen what might happen there I never understood, for to me such a possibility had long been evident. Maud was now eighteen; Lord Ravenel a romantic, somewhat Byronic figure of thirty-seven. To her parents the difference in age precluded love; to me love knew no such limitations. When therefore Ravenel came to us asking permission to try to win the child her parents refused. While nothing was said to Maud the disappearance of her lover—she was almost that—left her wounded and wondering. It was not only the difference in age which had dictated the course of John and Ursula, but lack of confidence in the stability of the young man's character.

That was soon to be tested. Within a short time after he had left us, with the understanding that he was not to return, the Earl, his father, died, leaving a large entailed property, but otherwise nothing but debts. To pay these debts, for which the law held the Earl in no way responsible, Ravenel, now Lord Luxmore, renounced his rights of inheritance. He himself was left with the smallest income on which a man of his rank could live. To John and Ursula this unexpected force of character brought mingled satisfaction and regret. The more they rejoiced in the nobility of the act the more deep their anxiety lest they should have intervened to the injury of two whom they loved.

And still more years went by. Edwin was now relieving his father of some of the cares of business; Walter was preparing to go out into the world; Maud was growing staid. Already prominent in public affairs John declined to stand for Parliament because, to some degree, the heart had gone out of him. There was no outward change beyond more gray in the hair and more gravity in the expression, but pain borne in secret was beginning to tell on him. The knowledge that Guy was so far away and Maud not happy had its effect on Ursula. Growing old myself I was obliged to stand by and watch the two I loved best on earth growing old even more rapidly.

There came a day when there was no more news from Guy. Our fears increased with the weeks. Then we received a letter saying that he and his partner were to sail in a few days' time from Boston. For some reason not explained the letter was already two months old. Had they really taken the ship Guy named they should have been in England some weeks ago. Inquiry at Lloyd's revealed no such ship as having crossed the Atlantic, though a small vessel of that name foundered in the West India. Had Guy and his partner sailed for England by this round-about route, it was still possible that they had been rescued, and might be on the way home.

So for more months we waited in a hope that gradually became no hope. For the first time in my knowledge of her the strong, competent Ursula began to have days of not coming downstairs. She never complained; she never spoke of Guy; she was only tired. John with his secret and she with hers seemed to withdraw each into a still place where they were alone with God. It was a quiet time; but to me it was the end.

Then one day a stranger appeared, tall, bearded, tanned. It was Maud who saw him first. Begging him to be seated, she told him she would tend for her father. "But Maud, don't you know me? I'm Guy."

He had come back with his partner, who was now known as William Ravenel. For John and Ursula it was the joy which lets the servant depart in peace. Guy having outlived his boyish passion for Louise d'Argent, he and Edwin met as friends. Maud and William Ravenel found each other in that happiness in which a difference of twenty years does not count.

We went one day into the old beech woods at Enderley, where thirty-three years earlier John and Ursula had vowed themselves to each other. John had come with Ursula had kept her room. Not even the bliss of Guy's return gave her back her strength. It was a pleasant afternoon with the young people all about us. John lay down upon the grass, his hat pulled over his eyes. "How cold it has grown," Maud said, towards sunset. "I think we ought to wake father."

But John did not wake. While sleeping he had been called. I went home to tell his wife.

We carried him into the old farmhouse where he and Ursula had met. There at ten that night she came to him. How she came I do not know. How she who had not walked for weeks had found her way hither, what strength had helped her to stand, upright and calm, I do not know. All I can say is that she came; that she talked to her children, bade them never forget their father, and asked them to leave her a little while alone with him.

We closed the door, sitting on the stairs outside. It might have been for minutes, and it might have been for hours. It was Guy who at last went in.

She was in the same place by the bedside, but half lying on the bed. Her arm was around her husband's neck, her face nestled close to his hair. They might have been asleep. One of her children called her, but she neither stirred nor answered. Guy lifted her up very tenderly—his mother—a widow.

But she was not a widow now.

RAILWAY MEN ARE HELD FOR THEFTS

DELPHOS, Aug. 4.—The mystery of the handkerchiefs has been solved. It will be remembered that better than two hundred dollars worth of handkerchiefs were found in an oats field on Mat Farnfeld farm west of Delphos last week.

They had been taken from a car on the Pennsylvania, removed from the packing case and taken into the field where they were hidden under the oats. Although it was thought at the time that clues which the police had would lead to the arrest of the guilty parties, they had evidently left this section and were not apprehended until they were caught in a car this side of Ft. SPORTS - BASEBALLReds Lose Yesterday, But Take Series From Giants—
Rotten Contest Staged at Murphy Street Park, Sunday.BOXING - SPORTS*LOCAL FANS SEE A GANG OF
"HAM" BALL PLAYERS PERFORMLovers of Game Get So Disgusted They Leave Stand in Second Inning—Rain Checks Good For Next Sunday

(BY JAMES F. BURBA)

Now, gentle phan, if you expect to read an account of yesterday's alleged ball game between the Lima aggregation and that fast performing (?) so called gang of ball tossers from Bucyrus, just fold up your paper and pick an O. Henry, for you'll not get it in this story. Saturday past, on this page we touted the Bucyrus aggregation as a set of ball playing fools. We stand corrected.

As pastimers the whole outfit would make a good gang of pearl-divers. Of all the constatables that have ever been staged in this city the one yesterday capped the climax. Now, don't misunderstand, it was not the fault of the local management, and it is going to do everything in its power to rectify the mistake.

The Bucyrus team was touted by various other clubs to be a fast playing, classy ball team. Two years ago and last season that city did have a pennant winning team, but it has certainly hit the incline this summer. The game yesterday was so rotten, fans started leaving in the second inning, and the sport writers from the three papers left in the sixth, so disgusting it was. Manager Holloran has announced his disappointment over the struggle of yesterday, and feeling that the fans did not really get their money's worth has made the announcement that rain checks on yesterday's game will be good next Sabbath. As a manager fair and square, we doff our chapeau to Mr. Holloran.

The contest, yesterday, cost the local management a pretty sum by the time they paid the Bucyrus fakers, and Lima players salary, and stockholders in the home organization stand to lose several dollars on the project.

Some one just slipped in and told us Lima won by the score of 12 to 11. In the fifth inning, Lima decided to make a practice game out of the affair, and put in all the substitutes on the ground, including a few peanut boys, and yet the visitors were unable to do anything.

Next Sunday, the Dayton Americans will be here for a return engagement, and if they play the same brand of ball as they did on their last trip to Lima, the fans will have nothing to kick about.

REDS LEADING BY ONE AND ONE HALF GAMES

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Cincinnati dented New York from the National league leadership last Friday and by winning the series, two games to one, had a lead of one and a half games over its rival Sunday. In the American league, Chicago faltered losing four games out of seven, but retained its lead. The St. Louis Browns advanced to engage in a close four-cornered fight for second place with Cleveland, Detroit and New York. The Indians had second place to themselves after yesterday's victory over Washington.

Strengthen Teams

Efforts to strengthen their forces were made last week by three leading National teams and the New York Americans. The Giants acquired from the Boston Nationals Pitcher Arthur Nerf, who held Pittsburgh to two hits on Friday and was the only pitcher to defeat Cincinnati in 10 games last week. Cincinnati obtained from Rochester International Outfielder See, who has been batting well. Chicago bolstered up both defense and offense by getting infielder Herzog from the Boston Nationals. The New York Yankees, however, have been unable to use Pitcher Carl Mays, obtained from the Boston Americans. Mays was indefinitely suspended by President Johnson for his refusal to pay a fine levied by his former club before his transfer.

In the National league, before meeting New York, Cincinnati took three straight games from Pittsburgh, one the completion of a six-inning contest begun July 5 and ordered finished after protest by New York. Boston was a victim in four games out of five, being shut out twice on Thursday by Fisher and Luque, Salles, a former Giant blanketed New York with five hits on Saturday.

Barnes Was Effective

Cincinnati was unable to score on Barnes who allowed five hits.

New York won single contests from Boston and Brooklyn, and took three games out of five from Pittsburgh. Toney and Barnes each shut out the Pirates with three hits. Chicago, with Alexander pitching shut out St. Louis. Two games with Brooklyn was divided, but two extra inning contests Saturday went to Philadelphia which advanced from last to sixth position. Alexander fanned 15 men in a fourteen-inning affair, but lost to Meadows, who won his fifth straight since joining the Quakers. Vaughn defeated the Quakers yesterday, forcing them back into seventh place.

Sox Pitchers Hit

In the American league Chicago's pitchers were batted hard early in the week, but became more effective later. New York administered Clete's first defeat after seven straight victories. The White Sox overcame the series Tuesday after sharing two ten-inning games Wednesday. Boston broke even Saturday.

Three of Cleveland's four defeats were by one-run margins. After losing a close contest to Detroit, the Indians dropped two in three to Philadelphia and won the rubber game yesterday, of a three-game series with Washington. Clevelski preventing the Senators from scoring.

Detroit shared four games with Boston, but lost to New York yesterday in the deciding game of the series. The Tigers lost a twelve-inning contest to Boston Thursday.

Sothoron pitched three victories for St. Louis last week defeating Chicago, Washington and Philadelphia. Shaw of Washington, shut out the Browns with four hits, their only defeat.

Week's Record

The week's record in each league of games played, won and lost with runs, hits, errors, men left on bases and runs scored by opponents, including games of Saturday, August 2, is as follows:

THE REAL DIFFERENCE.
"Here, one for you this morning," said the young man with the red necktie breezing into the boarding house breakfast table. "What's the difference between a man and a cow?"

"Because you've got to get on the right side of 'em to get anything out of 'em," suggested the man brought up on the farm.

"Back up there, Sam," I said, "what's the difference?"

"Well, my guess is 'cause a man is never satisfied with his lot," said the real estate broker.

"Not right."

"Perhaps it is 'cause a man never has more than two calves," said the clerk on the horse counter at the gentlemen's emporium.

"All wrong. Now listen. Because a cow never seems to bite off more than she can chew."—Yonkers Statesman.

Porto Rico is about 100 miles long by forty miles wide, and autobus lines furnish satisfactory service in covering the sections of the country where railways are not available. For the benefit of tourists and other daily automobile service connects San Juan on the south, with Ponce on the south of the island, a run of five hours.

THROUGH THE SPORTSCOPE

Well, well, the Giants finally took one from the Reds, didn't they?

Both the Redlegs and Giants are long on shut-outs.

We are looking for the man who said Bucyrus has a ball team.

That aggregation was supposed to play here yesterday didn't even resemble a ball team. Boy, page Mr. Coxey.

Saith the Sage of Hawg Creek: "Maybe that old 2.75 law hit the Bucyrus ball team."

Did 'ja notice, Herzog helped the Cubs whip the Phillies yesterday?

Our friend Greasy Neale had an out day Saturday.

A Red fan slapped McGraw's map Sunday, because that Giantman accused Cincinnati of being the home of the hun. Why use your hand, when a brick is handy?

Governor Cox presented Moran with a gold watch and chain Saturday afternoon. Governor, we live in Lima and our wrist watch is broken.

Old 2.75 may be gone from Kentucky, but good horses are still being raised there. Look at Miss Jemima at Saratoga.

Yes, and we suspect you can still find a little 2.75 in the Bluegrass state of you know the ropes.

Lovers of the sport of kings are of the opinion Purchase is the peer of Sir Barton. We are Missouri.

The Indians went into second place when they walloped the Senators yesterday.

The Reds will take a day off this afternoon. Giants otto.

Twenty Lima golfers from the Shawnee club played an eighteen hole match Saturday with Springfield hole players at the Springfield country club, losing fifteen of the twenty matches.

B. F. Thomas, Dwight Bailey and W. J. McLaughlin, of Lima, were winners. T. D. McLaughlin and A. W. Wheatley, Lima, halved with their opponents.

The Lima players were guests of the Springfield club at luncheon and dinner. Springfield will play a return match here August 13.

Young Jockey Hailed as Second "Tod" Sloan

Less than a year ago Laverne Fator was riding cow ponies—but perfectly broken cow ponies—on an Idaho ranch. Today he is the sensation of the eastern race tracks. Fator, about 18, has made such a wonderful success as a jockey that his enthusiastic followers are hailing him as a second "Tod" Sloan. Sam Hildreth, one of the shrewdest of horsemen, has just bought his three-year's contract for $15,000.

Mann and Picks Are Given Exchange For Star Infielder — Reported to Chicago Yesterday

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(Chas. (Buck) Herzog, star infielder of the Boston National league club, Saturday became a member of the Chicago Nationals as the result of a deal by which Leshe Mann and Charlie Pick, an infielder, are exchanged for the eastern player.

Herzog reported to the Chicago team yesterday. He formerly played with the New York and Cincinnati teams before going to Boston.

Pick joined the club last season from the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast league.

Mann was formerly with the Boston Nationals and went to the Chicago club of the Federal league. When that organization was disbanded and the baseball peace compact was signed in 1916 he was signed by the Chicago Nationals.

FERTILITY STANDARDSWOULD KEEP SOIL RICH

That farmers should begin to think of acid phosphate in a measure of tons rather than pounds, is the opinion of soil specialists at the Ohio Experiment Station. Tests at the station show that 50 bushels of wheat have been produced as an average from one ton of acid phosphate. The cost of acid phosphate in Ohio averages probably $27 a ton while 50 bushels of wheat will bring approximately $175. Thus the acid phosphate returns a profit of nearly 700 per cent.

As a basis of comparison, it is shown that certain fertility standards may be adopted. On a 160-acre farm, fertility standards as compared with results secured in experimental work at the Ohio station show that 16 tons of acid phosphate per year, a carload of limestone, a mile of tile, and the production of 400 loads of manure annually would form a profitable basis for increasing soil fertility.

This would also call for the growing of about 19 acres of clover, as the use of legumes in connection with manure, phosphorus and limestone on drained land, produces the best results. Such a plan of fertility reconstruction is regarded as necessary because the greater part of the soil in Ohio has been farmed for at least 50 years and these fertility elements must be supplied in reasonable quantities now, or later in very much larger amounts, at an increased cost.

A Chicago inventor's motion picture projector is small enough to be carried in a suit case and uses an incandescent lamp, so mounted that the film is kept cool and can be stopped for a picture to be examined.

MCGRAW YET TO WIN FIRST BALL FIGHT

CINCINNATI, Aug. 4.—As Manager McGraw of the Giants was getting into a taxi cab in front of the stand yesterday after the game he was hooted by some fans and replied by taunting them as living in the "home of the huns." One fan slapped the Giant leader on the face with his open hand, after which McGraw was hustled into the car by other players and drove rapidly away.

NECESSARY TO HUNT
POTATO WART SCOURGE

Evidence gathered by Dr. O. T. Wilson of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in hunting for the potato wart disease in Ohio, shows that gardeners should still keep an outlook for the disease. It is probable that the disease might get into home gardens from potato seed purchased in grocery stores.

It is also probable that the potato wart might exist in some sections for some time without being discovered.

Specimens of diseased potatoes will be identified at the Ohio Experiment Station, Wooster.

HAD REAL BOYS TOO

Codville is very proud of its schools, which boast all the latest improvements. Every visitor is asked "Have you seen our schools?"

"I have," replied one man promptly, in answer to the question "They're quite good."

"Splendid, aren't they?" gushed the native. "Fine buildings, and all the most up-to-date fittings. By the way, what was the first thing which struck you on entering?"

"A bean from a beanshooter," said the visitor coldly.

FOR YOUR SUMMER OUTING
COLORADO AND UTAH

The Rockies! Just to say the word is enough, when summer comes.

You think of peaks, more than two miles high—scores of them—and all snow-capped.

You think of mountain streams and lakes—ice-cold and clear as crystal.

You think of camping out in a glorious wilderness, next door to great cities with all their comforts; of the winding trail and the long climb; of delicate wild flowers, blooming right up to snow line, and the stillness of the deep woods.

Let the dream come true, this summer, for you!

Go to the Colorado and Utah Rockies and cool off—rest up—get a coat of tan—forget worries—grow young again. Be a mountaineer, and learn to love the high places of the everlasting hills.

ARMY FOOD SUPPLIES TO BE SOLD IN LIMA

PLAN FORMULATED AT SESSION OF CITY AND COUNTY HEADS

Will Be Sold at Cost Plus Overhead Expense of Freight

SOME PRICES QUOTED

Amount to be Allowed Each Purchaser is Not Yet Determined

Citizens of Lima will be given an opportunity to purchase army meats and vegetables at invoice price to the government plus freight to Lima and a small overhead cost, if plans now being formulated by city and county officials work out. At a meeting held in Mayor Simpson's office Monday morning, attended by Mayor, Service Director McHenry, Prosecutor Cable, City Solicitor Light, Postmaster Sullivan, County Commissioners Mackenzie, Miller and Luginbuhl, and Marketmaster Herbolzheimer, it was decided to endeavor to secure a car of mixed canned meats and a car of mixed canned vegetables.

If secured this foodstuff will be disposed of to citizens at the price originally paid by the government plus that small overhead cost, and freight. The marketmaster will immediately get in communication with army officials in Chicago to ascertain just how soon the food may be expected here. Upon hearing for that source, Herbolzheimer will go to Columbus and investigate the meat and vegetable.

The food will be shipped here from Columbus as that is the distributing point for this section. It has not been definitely settled from where the meats and vegetables will be distributed. Some of the officials favor selling the stuff from the cars on a sidewalk while Herbolzheimer and other officials desire that the food should be taken to the municipal hall and distributed from there.

Some Prices Quoted
Following are the invoice prices on canned meats:
P. Corned 1 lb cans $3.00 per doz
D. D. " 2 lb cans $4.96 " 6 lb cans $24.00 per doz
P. Corned 1 lb cans $7.48 per doz
D. D. " 2 lb cans $11.92 " 6 lb cans $72.10 per doz
H. Corned beef 1 lb cans $2.75 per doz
D. D. " 2 lb cans $4.50 per doz
Bacon in crates 24 lb per lb 12 lb cans $7.00 per lb
Canned vegetables will be sold in the same manner and at invoice price, at which same were sold to the government.
An effort is now afoot to learn whether or not the city will be able to handle more than the two carloads. County Commissioners Miller and Luginbuhl are of the opinion residents of the rural section will not be attracted by these foods, while city officials think there will be many sales to persons living in Allen county outside of Lima.

Details Discussed.
There is at present some discussion relative to what quantity should be allowed each person. The majority of those who attended the meeting this morning are in favor of allowing a person as much as he desires, so long as it is for his own use. This however, will be definitely decided before the food arrives.

It was ascertained at this morning's meeting the majority of gardens in Allen county this year are not successful. Also according to county commissioners the apple crop this season is a failure. An effort will be made in the very near future, officials declare to persuade citizens of Lima to endeavor to raise foodstuffs. This will be done they say before the season is too late.

WARNING ISSUED AGAINST POSSIBLE FALL EPIDEMICS

Possibility of the prevalence of infantile paralysis in Lima this fall has caused the state health department to urge all physicians to report promptly all cases showing symptoms of the disease, to the local health department. August, September and October always have been the most dangerous months for this disease.

The health department also urges the importance of vaccination against typhoid, especially for those coming on vacations or camping trips and to places where the water is not likely to be pure. At the present time there are several typhoid cases in Lima. Summons are wanted not to take any of the water to their stomachs as this is one of the most frequent ways of distributing typhoid fever.
No appointment of a health officer or board members will be made by the mayor until after applicants have passed the civil service examination to be held the latter part of this month. It is necessary following the examination for the state health board to approve and recommend. It will be held before the mayor may appoint them locally. The health law does not go into effect until after April 10. The board must organize under its provisions within 90 days of its date.

Ford Trade is Spreading All Over the World

Primarily full of the confidence which business success and the active energy which it attracts, the Ford Motor company are establishing assembling plants in Copenhagen, Denmark, and in Cadiz, Spain.

The Ford Motor company believes the war is over that a new dispensation has been established and that the world's American manufacturers can then turn their backs to the new conditions and reach out to meet the great demands of the world, why the quick of the havoc wrought by the war will have been effected. The quickness at work the sooner will the horrors of the war disappear in the earlier we can reach out on hand of trade to help the farther will be the disappearance of hate and enmity between people.

The Ford Motor company believes if you want the foreign market, to it. Don't wait for it to come to you. Take what you have to sell to the market and there show its advantages to the people who visit that market and to the people who buy in that market. If you wish for foreign trade, become an active, living part in the red blood of that trade. The whole world is a market today for American enterprise, and who realize this truth and make honest efforts to get that trade, will have it.

TO GET SEWER BIDS
City Engineer Miller, Monday morning announced bids for the construction of the new Collett street and Askins relief sewers will be opened August 28. It is anticipated quite a few bids for the construction of these sewers will be received.

Do You Think There Should Be A Mass Meeting?

A great many Times readers have written or telephoned in asking that a mass meeting be called to thoroughly cover the food question from every angle.

A number of readers have asked that Governor Cox be asked to come to Lima and speak in Memorial Hall, or out-of-doors, if the weather permits, to give his ideas regarding the measures necessary to be taken.

If there is any general feeling that such a meeting should be held it will not require much effort to conclude the arrangements.

FILL OUT THIS COUPON IF YOU WILL ATTEND SUCH A MEETING.

Editor Times, Lima, O.

I urge that a mass meeting be held and Governor Cox be requested to come to Lima and tell us about the food probe.

GRANGE TO OFFER PRIZES

At a meeting held at Jennings Grange near Spencer the Saturday, the members of Allen county Pomona Grange voted to take advantage of every exhibit offered for grange products at the Allen county fair during September. Movements by the grange to assist all legislation for the benefit of the farmer were started. At noon a basket dinner was served and the afternoon devoted to speeches and a musical program. J. A. Book is grange master and I. W. Weaver, secretary.

After losing a judgment of $113.48 in Justice Hamilton's court, Frank Penrich, has filed an appeal in common pleas court. According to the petition Clinker and Stevick, automobile repair company, filed suit some time ago in Hamilton's court to recover $113.48 alleged to be due them from Penrich for work done on his automobile. The plaintiffs were awarded judgment in that sum.

Can be quickly recovered by inserting a small lost ad in The Times Democrat.

COUNTY TEACHERS INSTITUTE WILL BE HELD AUG. 18-22

The annual Allen county teachers institute has been announced for August 18 to 22, and will be held this year at Memorial hall, instead of at Central high school, where in former years the institutes have been held. Owing to the fact that Superintendent Arganbright's office is located at Memorial hall, it was thought advisable, if possible, to hold the institute at that building.

It is expected that between 150 and 170 teachers of rural and village schools will be in attendance during those days. Superintendent Arganbright has announced that each teacher will be paid $2 a day, on each day that they attend institute.

An interesting as well as instructive series of programs have been arranged for each day. The principal speakers will be Wilson Hawkins, superintendent of the Canton schools and Dr. F. H. Greene, of the Westchester, Pa. Normal school. Both are speakers of ability, and have prepared a series of interesting talks to be delivered during the five days session.

CASE IS APPEALED

After losing a judgment of $113.48 in Justice Hamilton's court, Frank Penrich, has filed an appeal in common pleas court. According to the petition Clinker and Stevick, automobile repair company, filed suit some time ago in Hamilton's court to recover $113.48 alleged to be due them from Penrich for work done on his automobile. The plaintiffs were awarded judgment in that sum.

Two Plants in Lima Increase Employees Pay

An increase in wages of Garford Motor Truck company and the East Iron and Machine company employees goes in effect today, according to an announcement made by officials of the two concerns. The Garford employees receive an average increase of 12 1-2 per cent, while the East Iron company's men will receive approximately an 18 per cent increase. Each firm is giving its employees time and a half for Sundays and holidays.

RURAL CARRIER EXAMINATION

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination for the county of Allen, Ohio, to be held at Delphos on August 23, 1919 to fill the position of rural carrier at Delphos and vacancies that may later occur on rural routes from other post offices in the above mentioned county. The examination will be open only to citizens who are actually domiciled in the territory of a post office in the county and who meet the other requirements set forth in Form No. 1977. This form and application blanks may be obtained from the office mentioned above or from the United States Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C. Applications should be forwarded to the Commission at Washington at the earliest practicable date.

LIMA CLUB WOMEN JOIN FIGHT ON THE HIGH COST OF FOOD

Plans are now being made by Lima clubwomen to start a fight against the high food prices, similar to that being waged by hundreds of club women in various other cities. The Women's Federation of clubs, with which 1200 Lima women are affiliated are starting the movement, and have designated their president Mrs. Luah M. Butler, to go to Dayton for several days this week, to see the manner in which the Dayton women are conducting their investigation.

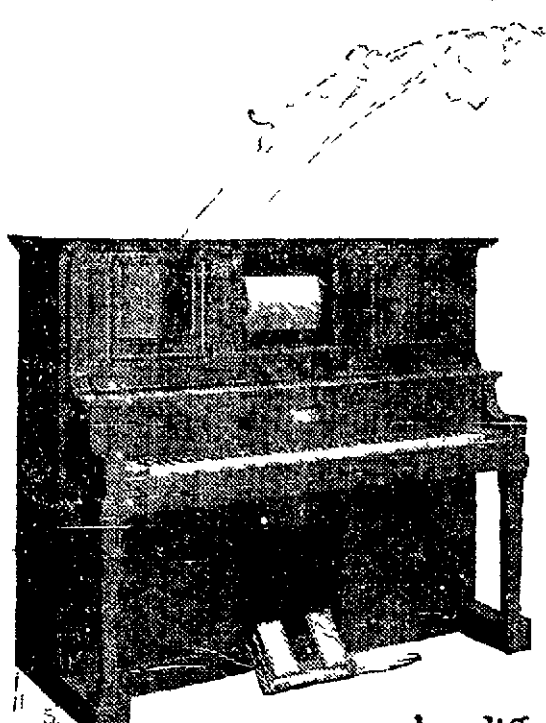

Upon the return of Mrs. Butler, a meeting will be called of all the general chairmen, to discuss the results obtained at the Dayton investigation. The movement is expected to be instrumental in helping solve the food problem.

It is expected that women will canvass the city, obtaining price lists from the various groceries and meat markets and later make returns to the committee. Grocers and butchers have been unanimous in expressing their desire to help in the investigation and join in the effort to combat the high prices, Mrs. Butler stated Monday morning.

Suppose the APOLLO PLAYER PIANO Does Cost a Little More

Style "W" Apollophone $900

Style "A" $700

The APOLLO sells for a little higher average price because the manufacturers decided in the beginning, 20 years ago, to make that kind of an instrument. They have never had any reason for changing this policy.

And if the style you want costs you a hundred dollars more than you expected to pay, just spread the difference over 30 years (the estimated life of an APOLLO) and—it's less than a cent a day!

Is it worth that difference to own an APOLLO—the instrument that satisfies your every musical desire and plays with human expression?

Hear the APOLLO and judge for yourself.

REVISED APOLLO PRICES

F. O. B. Factory, DeKalb, Ill.
Style "A" $700
